

CHRISTINE CHAUVET

After studying management (Université Paris-Dauphine), art history and advertising, Christine Chauvet started and managed several international companies in the sectors of communications and trade in Paris, Brussels, Madrid, Manila and Houston. Ms. Chauvet managed multiple trade institutes such as the Centre Français du Commerce Extérieur (CFCE), Comité Français des Manifestations Economiques à l'Étranger (CFME) and the Moniteur du Commerce International (MOCI) before becoming CEO of Fleishman-Hillard France.

As a former minister for Trade in Alain Juppé's first government, she has experience in business, politics, associations and communications at international level.

Christine Chauvet is president of the supervisory board of the Compagnie Nationale du Rhône (CNR). She was President of FCE – Femmes Chefs d'Entreprises, Vice President of FCEM – World Association of Women Entrepreneurs. She is NEWWW – Network of Entrepreneurial Women WorldWide World President. Christine Chauvet is Officer of the French "Ordre du Mérite" and Officer of the French "Légion d'honneur".